Sour grapes

A fox was trotting on one day,
And just above his head
He saw a vine with lovely grapes,
Rich, ripe, and purple-red;

Eager he tried to snatch the fruit,
But, ah! It was too high;
Poor Reynard had to give it up,
And heaving a deep sigh,

He curled his nose and said,
'Dear me! I would not waste an hour
Upon such mean and common fruit -
I'm sure those grapes are sour!'

'Tis thus we often wish thro' life
When seeking wealth and pow'r;
And when we fail, say, like the fox,
'We're sure the grapes are sour!'

Test 14

Read the paragraph and answer the questions.

I always enjoy the drive into Marley. It is a good straight road, with some pleasant views of the countryside on either side. There are woods and hills, villages and farms and, about halfway, a large lake. And because there is rarely much traffic on the road, I can usually enjoy the view as I drive along.

I was rather annoyed the other morning, therefore, when a small green car began to drive very close behind me. I went a little faster, hoping to leave the car behind. But whenever I slowed down, the little car caught up with me. However, I did not recognize either him or the car.

Again I began to drive a little faster but the little car caught up with me whenever I slowed down. "Perhaps I am doing something wrong," I thought. I checked my lights and my indicator, but they were both in order. And certainly had not got a puncture. The man was a lunatic, I decided. Feeling rather cross, I drove off very fast, leaving the small green car behind. I did not slow down until I got to Marley.

There are some traffic lights just before you cross the railway bridge into Marley and, as it happened, the lights turned red as I approached. I was still waiting there when the little green car caught up with me.

I asked rather coldly. "I'm trying to help you!" the man said. "You see, your number plate fell off about fifteen miles back. I tried to attract your attention but you didn't take any notice.

1. Where was the speaker going to?

2. Why did he like the road.

3. What did Alex do before he drove off very fast?

4. Underline the right answer.

(i) The driver of the small green car annoyed Alex because he wanted to:

(a) enjoy the view (b) drive slowly (c) stop halfway

(ii) Alex got away from the small green car by;

(a) driving very fast (b) checking the lights (c) waving to him

(iii) Alex stopped at the bridge because of:

(a) A train (b) the traffic (c) the traffic light
